FOREWORD

This publication, developed by Culture Action Europe and its membership, offers an overview of the place of culture in the National Recovery and Resilience Plans (NRRPs) of the Member States of the European Union.

In 2020, as an immediate response to the pandemic crisis the EU institutions adopted an one-of-a-kind stimulus package, called Next Generation EU, (NGEU), to boost the recovery of the continent. The core component of this envelope, called Recovery and Resilience Facility (RRF) is channeled to EU Member States between 2021 and 2026 to better cope with the pandemic fallout and make European economies and societies more sustainable, resilient and better equipped for the green and digital transitions.

This brief overview aims at analysing what types of investments and reforms (if any) are contained in the NRRPs directly supporting Europe's cultural ecosystem, which has been among the most affected by the long crisis and the subsequent containment measures.

It follows up on the call by the European cultural and creative sectors, and backed by the European Parliament, to specifically earmark at the very least 2% of each NRRP for culture. In particular, at the time of preparation of the various national strategies between October 2020 and March 2021, Culture Action Europe, together with more than 110 European cultural networks and organisations, coordinated joint actions and two open letters asking the EU Member States to ensure an explicit inclusion of culture in their NRRPs. This call was part of the Cultural Deal for Europe, an umbrella strategy for reviving and reimagining Europe through culture launched by Culture Action Europe (CAE), the European Cultural Foundation (ECF) and Europa Nostra, also in its capacity as coordinator of the European Heritage Alliance. • FW

14 countries out of 26 <sup>1</sup> - 53% of the total - have included culture in their	INFO
NRRPs. The analysis stemming from this overview proves that at least 2% in	AT the EU26 - i.e., around 12 billion euros - has been mobilised for culture. As	BE a result of the mapping exercise performed thanks to the contributions from Culture Action Europe members , we can conclude that while the 2% figure	BG has been met at an aggregated EU level, the majority of Member States	HR either do not foresee any specific line for culture or do lag behind such value,	CY standing at around 1% - well under the 2% earmarking.	CZ
A closer look at each NRRP shows that the 2% figure at the EU leve has been	DK boosted by the performance of a limited number of countries, such as Italy	EE and France, with notable good practices represented, inter alia, by Czech Republic and Austria. In addition, we see that sometimes not strictly cultural	FIN interventions are included in such a tiny envelope, for example supporting	FR tourism and energy efficiency of (cultural) buildings.	DE Roughly half of the remaining Member States have not featured any specific	GR interventions for culture in their NRRPs. Several of them, from Germany	HU interventions for culture in their NRRPs. Several of them, from Germany to Sweden, from Luxembourg to Denmark, have nonetheless put forward national schemes to sustain the cultural and creative sectors, which is an example that could inspire follow-up actions by those other countries which have not foreseen any specific intervention for culture in their Plans. An additional level of reading concerns the type of interventions foreseen	LV

An additional level of reading concerns the type of interventions foreseen	LT
in those NRRPs that are including culture among their funding lines.	LU
Vast support is devoted to 'easily reportable' interventions that can justify	МТ meeting milestones and targets (i.e., the strict criteria to unlock the payments from the EU institutions), such as renovation of heritage sites and cultural	NL spaces, and digitisation of cultural products. The predominant paradigm	PL supports cultural and creative industries, including audiovisual, and often	РТ prioritises big institutional players, leaving aside the cultural independent scene and micro and small organisations.	RO

Despite some interesting exceptions, including by those countries which	INFO are supporting contemporary creation (France) and regeneration through	AT culture (Italy) with EU investments, as well as the adoption of a Status of	BE the Artists (Spain, the Czech Republic) as part of the reforms featured in their NRRPs, culture and cultural agents are still very much instrumentally	BG perceived for their contribution to the economy rather than as values	HR
in themselves.	CY
The call by Europe's cultural and creative sectors to cormark 20% of each NPPP	CZ
The call by Europe's cultural and creative sectors to earmark 2% of each NRRP explicitly for culture has therefore not been answered. The heterogeneous	DK public investments in the cultural sector can cause increased disparities	EE among the cultural ecosystems of the various EU countries, potentially	FIN recovering from the crisis and restarting at different speeds. At the end of the day, this threatens Europe's cultural diversity, on the one hand, and	FR reduces the chances for a pluralistic transnational cultural cooperation at	DE
the EU level.	GR
In light of the above, we reiterate our call for a more clear and determined commitment for culture in Europe. This is urgently needed for a full	HU recovery of the European cultural ecosystem and for safeguarding the sector's sustainability, variety and vitality. There will be no future for Europe	IT without culture.	LV
	LT
METHODOLOGICAL REMARKS
In order to map investments and reforms relevant for culture included in the various NRRPs, Culture Action Europe has mobilised its wide membership	MT to get an overview of the different types of interventions, as well as the	NL
budget mobilised to this end.	PL
At the time of writing (5 November 2021), 26 Member States out of 27 have	PT presented their NRRPs for validation by the European Commission. 22	RO have been subsequently approved by the Council of the EU - the last step to unlock the funds -, while 17 have been admitted (provided that so was	SK requested) to an immediate 13% pre-financing instalment. A few NRRPs	SI still remain to be approved, due to concerns on the rule of law (Poland and	ES
Hungary), while the Dutch Plan is yet to be submitted.	SE

In the framework of the European Union's rescue plan Next Generation EU,	INFO which accounts for 806.7 billion euros, 723.8 billion euros have been destined	AT
to the Recovery and Resiliency Facility (RRF), which will sustain the recovery of the Mambar States around energific projects for a five year time.	BE of the Member States around specific projects for a five-year time.	BG
Out of this overall figure, 338 billion euros are non-repayable grants, while	HR
385.8 are repayable loans. In light of the disputed political feasibility of loans, only a handful of Member States have effectively asked for both types of	CY funds, opting 'en masse' for just subsidies, despite being entitled to a portion	CZ
of both.	DK
Many other countries could still ask for more funds (and some of them	EE certainly will, as they have drafted short-term plans covering less than the	FIN
five-year period).	FR
As a result of this choice and the actual requests coming from the Member	DE
States, however, the EU is mobilising a spending firepower which is of	GR around 500 billion euros, almost 30% short of the maximum allowance	HU committed by the EU decision makers for the RRF. In addition, some Member States have complemented their envelope with national co-	IE financing (around 100 billion euros more): when this was the case, the	IT overall value of the NRRP - regardless the source of the funds - has been used to determine the financial contribution to support culture in each Plan	LV used to determine the financial contribution to support culture in each Plan. For the purpose of this mapping, the aggregated figure has been used as a baseline to determine whether the 2% earmarking has been reached on both	LU
national and EU levels.	MT
